

POET'S MOTHER DIES; NEIHARDT OFF FOR HOME

Cancels All Engagements; Payne Symposium Called Off.

HERE FOR 11 DAYS

The death of Mrs. Alice Neihardt, the mother of John G. Neihardt, Wednesday noon necessitated the poet's cancelling his Omaha engagements so that he might return to his birthplace at Bancroft, Nebr., where burial will take place, at once.

Dr. Neihardt was in Blair, Nebr., where he gave a poetry reading to the students there, when University officials were notified by wire of the death. He was recalled and left shortly after returning to Omaha.

Cancels Payne Symposium

The cancelled engagements included a symposium at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred Payne, where Dr. Neihardt was to have informally discussed "The Value of Poetic Intuition" with members of Dr. Payne's philosophy classes and other guests.

Mrs. Neihardt had been seriously ill for some time. She lived close to Dr. Neihardt's farm at Branson, Missouri. He is the only son.

At Uni For 11 Days

This unfortunate departure terminated a week and a half of public and personal contact with Omaha University students and faculty members. It is estimated that at least three hundred students conferred with Dr. Neihardt in the conference hours at the Men's Faculty building.

Publish Horn Book Review

A book review, by Gunnar Horn, former editor of The Gateway, which appeared in the Scholastic Editor on "Journalism For High Schools," has been reprinted by the publishers and will be sent to high school journalism teachers throughout the United States.

Horn completed a four-year course at the University in three years. He is now teaching in the Omaha public schools.

Plan Frat Clubhouse In School's Garage

When first questioned about the story which appeared in an Omaha newspaper concerning plans to transform a four-car garage into an Alpha Sig club house, Carlton Williams, vice-president of Alpha Sigma Lambda, had nothing to say. According to the article the university authorities have sanctioned the frat's plan to remodel the garage.

Later, Williams disclosed that if the plans materialized club members will cover the walls with beaverboard, and partition the garage into several rooms. The rooms will be furnished with a radio, a stove and other pieces of furniture.

The garage is the building behind the Women's Faculty building.

President Rules Against Smoking Room For Men

Establishment of a smoking room at the University would cause the cancellation of insurance, carried on the school buildings, President W. E. Sealock said Wednesday in explaining the administration's refusal to set aside such a room.

Replying to the student council's recent request for a men's smoking room, President Sealock said:

"Our buildings are not fire-proofed, and permitting smoking in them would be considered by the insurance companies as a sufficient hazard to cancel our policies."

SELECT POPULAR MAN AT "HOP"

WAA Presents Dance Tonight To Raise Convention Funds.

Ten university men were nominated for most popular man on the campus, to be decided at the Varsity Hop tonight, it was announced by the Women's Athletic Association Wednesday.

The following candidates for the title were selected from the fraternities and the Barbs:

Joe Greenstone, '35, Beta Tau; Benny Johnson, '36, and Carson Rogers, '37, Theta Phi Delta; William Nelson, '36, and William Corson, '37, Phi Sigma Phi; Kenneth Hargrove, '36, and Warren Novak, '36, Alpha Sigma Lambda; and Kenneth Turner, '36, Martin Speckter, '37, and Marlin Wilkinson, '36, Barbs.

Jack Frieden will be master of ceremonies at the dance, the receipts of which will be used to send Omaha university delegates to the W. A. A. convention in Chicago.

Tickets are 50 cents.

FORMER STUDENT DIES

Mrs. Roland F. Wellman, '27, died at a local hospital Saturday morning, February 2, after an illness of two weeks. Mrs. Wellman is the former Doris Roberts, a member of Sigma Chi Omicron. She is survived by her husband, Roland Wellman, and a daughter, Marilyn Ann.

Handicaps No Bar to Doris Lynn's Pursuit of Education at Omaha U

Doris Lynn, '37, is accumulating the wealth of the Indies.

When Doris entered Omaha University, in 1933, that was her goal. She is now a sophomore and throughout her year and a half Doris has been working to accumulate wealth—the wealth of the Indies.

Ever since birth Doris has been troubled with heart disease. Doctors had despaired of her life-time and time again. Because of her illness she was for a long time prevented from obtaining that which she prizes most highly—a college education.

Entering grade school at an advanced age, she made a remarkable scholastic record. At Technical High school she was an out-

Netmen, Golfers, Get First Letters

Minor Sports Are Finally Awarded University 'O'; Gridders Get Sweaters.

Years of patient prayer, petition and pleading came to a successful close Wednesday with the awarding of minor letters to members of the university's golf and tennis teams. It is the first time that letters have been awarded for minor sports.

Letters only were awarded. Director Sed Hartman explaining that the athletic department could not afford the expense of sweaters for the minor sports.

Netsters Win All

The tennis squad, coached by L. N. Bradfield, swept undefeated through a schedule of six intercollegiate matches in 1934. Bob Brown, Stan Putnam, Joe Barker, Bob Barbee and Joe Greenstone were the netmen who received letters.

The golf squad was less successful last year, winning from Iowa State, 12-6, losing two matches to Drake, 13-5 and 15-3, and dropping a second match to Iowa State, 13-5. Don McGowan and Bob Anthes received white sweaters emblematic of the conference championship.

Dr. R. W. Fouts will speak to the Pre-Med club today on the X-ray at 10 o'clock at Science Hall.

DISCUSS ANNUAL AT OPEN FORUM

Editors Seek Opinions of Students Regarding 1935 Year Book.

Plans for the Omaha University year book, will be discussed at an open forum in Jacob's Hall Friday, February 15. Woodrow Tietzort and Howard Wilcox, co-editors of the book, announced Wednesday.

"The students will be able to express what they want, what they are willing to pay, and to what extent they are willing to co-operate," explained Tietzort. "If the students want a year book, they will have one. It is up to them to decide."

Following the discussion of the Annual plans an opportunity will be given for further debate upon any current problems of the University.

If the plan for the Annual is accepted a staff will be chosen within two weeks and work on the publication will begin at once, the editors said. Among the major positions open on the staff is that of advertising manager.

Cardinals Meet Peru Bobcats Saturday Night

The second-place Peru basketball team will be the guest of the Cardinal five tomorrow night at the Central High gym. Fresh from two victories over Chadron, the Bobcats are set on avenging a 30-23 defeat handed them by the Omahans earlier in the season.

Omaha, seeking its sixth N. I. A. A. win, will be the favorite to take the Peruvians, and with the big three, Wilkinson, Patterson and Curtis, leading the conference scorers, Coach Hartman is visualizing another win. Baade, another regular, is in sixth place in scoring and is always a threat.

Peru will show their star, Carmichael, before the Omahans, and as he goes so goes Peru. An Omaha victory will clinch the N. I. A. A. title for the Cardinals.

MARTIN CONFERS WITH PWA ON FEDERAL PROJECT

Regents Attempt To Take Advantage of $230,000 Grant.

EVADE BOND ISSUE

Paul W. Martin, a member of the board of regents, left for Washington Saturday evening to confer with PWA officials in regard to the proposed million dollar Omaha University new buildings program.

Before leaving Omaha Martin announced that he was seeking an agreement with PWA authorities whereby the regents can secure funds to finance the new building program without a bond issue. He is expected to return to Omaha tomorrow.

A bill authorizing the regents to issue bonds to finance the new building program was introduced in the state legislature last week, but no action has been taken on it as yet. The bond issue would have to be submitted at a general election to the voters of Omaha before the regents would be permitted to market them.

"The next general election in Omaha will not be held for more than a year," Martin said. "The regents are afraid that PWA funds will be exhausted by this time and the University will not be able to take advantage of the thirty per cent grant which the PWA is now extending to public building projects. The grant is worth about $230,000."

PWA officials last fall turned down a proposition whereby the federal government would erect four buildings to cost about one million dollars on a campus selected by the University regents. The buildings were to be leased to the regents for 35 years at an annual rental of $32,000. The buildings were to become the property of the University at the end of 35 years.

Women Debaters Back From Dana

PERLMETER CARROLL

The Omaha University women's debate team, Josephine Carroll, '36, and Bernice Perimeter, '36, participated in a debate with Dana College at Blair, Nebr., last week. It was the first debate of the season for the team, and was non-decision.

Fannie Witkin, '38, is the other member of the squad. Dr. Benjamin Boyce is sponsor of the group.

MEN'S SMOKING ROOM

THE editor of the Daily Nebraskan in his "swan song" in the last issue of the fall semester bemoaned "the usual lack of success" with which the crusades carried on by the Daily Nebraskan met with on the campus. Among other things, the Daily Nebraskan campaigned for a student co-operative bookstore, an activities tax, and a Student Union building.

It is interesting to note that The Gateway in past semesters has waged a similar campaign with the "usual lack of success." A campaign for a student co-operative bookstore last year fell flat before the opposition of the administration. The activities tax campaign met a similar fate.

Realizing the impossibility of securing a Student Union building, The Gateway three years ago turned to a campaign for a men's smoking room. While the proposed co-operative bookstore and the activities tax are dead, there is some hope for a men's smoking room. A number of faculty members have expressed an interest in the matter. The idea has gone so far as to even be discussed in a Student Council meeting.

It is very likely that the garage behind the women's faculty building could be set aside for a smoking room. The time is ripe for action on the proposal. The Gateway stands ready to co-operate with any group on the campus which is willing to push the campaign. It may be that before long the men's smoking room will be realized and The Gateway will be able to point to one campaign which did not meet with the "usual lack of success."

COLLEGE PEACE BALLOT

THE Literary Digest is performing a valuable service in conducting a Peace Poll among undergraduates in 119 American colleges and universities. Apart from determining the attitude of college students toward proposed ways to insure peace, the Peace Poll is stimulating interest among undergraduates in the all-important problem of averting war.

Whether the College Peace Ballot will give an accurate cross-section of American college students' views on the problem of peace will, of course, be questioned by some observers. In the light of the past accuracy of Literary Digest straw votes, however, it appears we can accept as valid the results of the Peace Ballot. However, when war becomes a distinct possibility we suspect that a goodly number of those undergraduates who would not go to war at present would be eager to again "make the world safe for democracy."

That Omaha University is not included in the Poll is to be regretted. It would be most interesting to learn the attitude of Omaha undergraduates toward the questions propounded by the Digest. The vote, we imagine, would be of a trend similar to that recorded at other middle-western universities. It would not be at all out of the way, we believe, for the Student Council at the next all-university election, to include a ballot similar to the Digest College Peace Ballot.

THE NEW BUILDINGS

THAT a bill authorizing Omaha University regents to borrow money to finance the PWA building proposal has been introduced in the state legislature is encouraging, in that it shows that attempts are still being made to secure the new buildings so sorely needed by the University.

We cannot, however, get unduly enthusiastic over the developments in the new building campaign. For one reason, the bond issue will have to be voted upon by voters at the first general election to be held in Omaha. Assuming that the bond issue could successfully run the gauntlet of the voters, a general election will not be held in Omaha until next year. By this time the PWA, which was set up to speed recovery by stimulating public works, will have accomplished its purpose and have disappeared.

We can, however, hope for the best, and it may be that the future will bring developments which will assure Omaha of the necessary funds to build a complete, modern plant for Omaha University.

The best testimonial in favor of war is that not one of the ten million killed have ever complained.

Orchesis Bloom In The Moonlight ...

By MARTIN K. SPECKTER

This week's Gateway carries a story of the Orchesis dancers, Miss Ruth Diamond's aesthetics. The story is complete—almost. No mention is made of the leotards.

A leotard, you understand, is a one-piece bathing suit that was educated in Boston. They're very short, but have long sleeves. They come in all colors, but our Orchesises are black.

The girls are getting so that they are no longer self-conscious, but perhaps the girls don't know. As Bobby Burns said:

O wad some pow'r the giftie gie any fem
To see Leotards, as others see them!

Of course, I think leotards are very nice and quite appropriate for the dances, which I urge you to see. In fact, together with Bill Shakespeare, I affirm that

I come to praise Leotards, not to bury 'em!
No matter how they look, some guys will still marry 'em!

The best part of the dances (I was Miss Diamond's guest at several) is the utter disregard for life and limb with which the girls throw themselves on the floor over in Jacobs Hall. The leotards are new, and at the time I saw them hadn't been issued according to size. Some waved quite defiantly. Others were rather tight. Someone left the side door open and the wind was blowing. I think Sammy Coleridge puts it rather nicely:

Verse, a breeze mid blossoms straying,
Where Hope kept clinging, like a bee—
And the breeze kept breezing until, you see,
Her Leotard kept creeping—above her knee.

Almost every girl I know was in that Orchesis ensemble. Without naming names, I can honestly say that there were more girls there than have ever been in The Gateway office to use the telephone. Wm. Wordsworth knew just how I felt:

There are puddles of dew on the campus yard
And I can say, with the other Bards,
It wasn't raining rain to me,
It was raining Leotards.

This is all in the spirit of fun and endeavor, and good, healthy amusement, of course, and no offense intended.

Dear Miss Diamond: Please take note
Of these dashing poems I just wrote.
I'm sure your sentiments are in nowise hard,
I'm just funnin' with your Leotard.

Thru The Keyhole

OUT OF THE PAST:

Ten years ago today Warren Dunham and Homer Schleh were making monkeys of themselves on the Omaha University campus as initiates of Theta Phi Delta fraternity, which requested them to cuckoo the time of day at regular intervals from atop their frat house, wear wing collars, bow ties and shave only one side of their face. WORLD-HERALD.

THITHER, HITHER AND YON:

Dorothy Anderson said she tried to drown her sorrows, but he was so fat he floated... Have you seen how Lloyd has been painting up lately since she has become interested in Leigh... Ask Stein-camp what it was she removed from the left side of her dress when Gene Peterson walked in the H. H. ... Fern Fitch has no ambition... she's just naturally "Lacy"... Gosh, here it is only Wednesday morning and V. Lee Long is eating Tums.

TALKING TO MYSELF:

John Kozak says that when he sees Irene Tinkham his heart just makes him—well, just ask Johnnie... Girls, it's a shame that you weren't able to swipe the food from the Theta rush party... Dorothy Markacheff "Ames" to have a good week-end... Does it do any good for Kozak to be ga ga over that red head when Wade has begun to believe in love... Modernity here: "Thars bars in them thar night clubs"... From now on Benny Johnson (Little Brother) prefers to be known as PANTY WAIST... Some of the students are taking to the auto show seriously... Moucka and I have collaborated on a car (?)... It was too tiresome to leave early to catch the last car home, so the green limousine is the result.

WHOZYOURLITTLEWHOZIS:

Max Steincamp has purchased a mustard colored Ford motored bathtub from J. James, who bought it from Karl Wolf... M. Gloe also has an interest in it... The habit of bringing certain activities into the corridors of our school has become commonplace lately; thereby creating the impression that the school is going to the dogs or vice-versa... F. Nelson is with us once more after strenuously attempting to complete his education at N. U.

Three things we are sure of—death, taxes, and that the site for our new buildings will be located somewhere in Omaha.

President Sealock Tells Reporter of Gardening, Campus

By ALICE WEAR

The lineage of violinists with long bobs, professors with lax concentration, and reporters with gay, swaggering airs, is almost extinct. One is surprised when he meets a character with categorizing, eccentricities.

But Dr. William Elmer Sealock, a benevolent gentleman with a thick shock of pure white hair, who often putters in a woodland garden and who manifests a supreme ambition for the University of Omaha, can meet an idealist's requirements for a president of a university.

Born in Rural Dale, Ohio, a graduate of Columbia University, and registered in Who's Who in America and Who's Who in American Education, President Sealock is a busy man.

This reporter willingly waited thirty minutes for a ten-minute chat about his azalias, his golfing and hunting, and his ambitions for the University of Omaha, before he was due at a Rotary Club luncheon.

He sits behind a small desk littered with papers—a large man in a gray tailored suit.

Sees 60-100 Acre Campus

He talks easily of a high rolling campus of sixty to one hundred acres, situated not too far south and not too far north—a campus with an administration building, a science hall and a work-shop, a gymnasium and a football stadium. He places first in his University endeavors "a huge campus that will not be cramped for space when a normal increase of enrollment is inevitable."

President Sealock talks of another ambition—not unlike that of Willa Cather's lovable character from "Professor's House." He'd like to drive, alone, to all points south, or all points west or all points east. "I tried it once for four days," he confided, "and I'd like to try it again, with say only the Atlantic coast as my objective."

On his bookcase are pictures of Columbia University friends, on his wall a painting of "The Bridge of Sighs," and on his filing cabinet an old trophy.

Loves Garden Work

"I'm lazy," President Sealock says of his gardening. "I don't care to bother with annuals. I like the kind of shrubs that bloom year after year." Autumn colored shrubbery of bright orange and scarlet take his fancy rather than flowers, he confided. He likes to putter with bulbs and trees and shrubs that are not native to Nebraska soil. He is a little worried about his azalias, but his "moun-

Faculty Sponsors Education Meet

Dr. Taylor Directs Observation Tour; System Being Studied.

Representatives from Omaha university made a tour of the Blair (Nebr.) schools in an observation visit directed by Dr. L. O. Taylor, assistant professor of education, Wednesday, February 6.

Forums on school maintenance, equipment and curriculums were held. Supervisors of various Nebraska schools addressed the visiting groups in discussion conferences.

Faculty members attending were Dr. W. E. Sealock, Dr. Taylor, Miss Frances Wood, Miss Ruth Diamond, Mr. Irwin Hammer, Dr. Edgar A. Holt, and Dr. W. H. Thompson.

Students who accompanied the group were Howard Sorenson, Paul Brawner, Duane Butler, Frank Underwood, Doris Coonley, Frances Robertson, Edward Scouten, Tom Organ, and Sue Kemper.

The next conference in this series will be a high school music clinic at Omaha university on February 23. Professor Martin Bush will be in charge.

Miss Diamond At State Athletic Meet

Miss Ruth Diamond attended the Girls' Athletic Association conference held at Lincoln Friday and Saturday, February 1 and 2. She served in the capacity of an adviser and as secretary for the Nebraska Physical Education group.

All Nebraska high school G. A. A. groups which are affiliated with the Nebraska State League of Girls' Athletic Association were represented.

STUDENT FORUM

To the Editor:

For examples of noise one has only to visit our library in order to be overwhelmed with sounds that should be outlawed. He or she who walks with leaden heels can evidently find no other method of achieving recognition in the halls of learning. The "date" that one had last night, the moral injustice of Dr. Stimson's weekly quizzes, the excellence of the spaghetti served at the Italian restaurant, and the complete success that you enjoyed when you "sure told him" on the "date" that you had last night, are all of no importance to the inmate of the library who is skipping through Kant's Critique of Pure Reason.

Thumbing one's nose, making faces and writing notes are excellent means of having silent amusement; besides it would make it possible for us to build up another tradition, that of calling the library the morgue.

tain laurel and rhododendrons are coming fine."

Dr. Sealock is modest about his golf score and insists that his once winning third place in a Nebraska School Masters' Tournament was really a mistake. "I didn't even keep my score," he said unpretentiously. "Someone in the forecourse did, and just happened to turn it in."

Dr. John G. Nelhardt, the famous poet, opened the office door, and President Sealock, a man of tremendous energy, who putters in gardens and is an idealist's university president, hastened to make him welcome.

Omaha Repeats Win Over Wayne

"You're the Top."

Thus sang the Wayne quintet at the concert given last Friday in the Wayne Concert Hall. The proud teacher, Omaha University basketballers, had a difficult time in teaching the "pupils" that song, for the Wildcats had announced to the public that they would sing "Happy Days Are Here Again," but were overruled 44 to 37.

The baton was wielded by Captain Curtis, high scorer of the evening, and he used the rest of the experienced performers of the Omaha "Choral Basketweavers" as models for the Wayne students to study and imitate. Wayne was given a lesson when they played in Omaha earlier in the season, but evidently they had not followed the instructions of the teacher and were a bit unruly in deciding the song to be given in the recital.

Wayne had their own way in the first half of the musicale, but the Omahans decided to review the old lesson and therein lay the fall of the Wildcats. This was the fifth pupil of the Cards to perform by the methods characteristic of the Omahans. Wilkinson and Patterson, the other members of the original "Iowa Trio," were especially outstanding in assisting the Cards in the fifth successful performance.

LOWELL CURTIS

Capt. Lowell Curtis' 18-point scoring spree in the Wayne game last week sent him to the top of the Omaha scorers for the season. The association will be entertained by the University's language clubs. The German club will present a modern German play.

The Gateway welcomes news tips from the students.

College Peace Ballot Results Favor League

Returns from 65,000 undergraduates in the College Peace Poll give a scant majority for United States entry into the League of Nations, according to tabulations published in the February 2 issue of the Literary Digest.

By a six to one margin students voted not to bear arms if the United States invaded another country. Government control of munitions and universal conscription were favored by similar majorities. More than 10,000 undergraduates voted not to bear arms if the United States were invaded.

By a 15,000 majority undergraduates repudiated the idea that an American navy and air force second to none is a sound way to insure United States against being drawn into another war. That America could remain out of another war was affirmed by undergraduates by a two to one vote.

The Gateway invites letters from students on topics of interest to those interested in the University.
